

ENTERTAIN IN CELL MEDIA CENTRE SOLUTION

Boredom is more than an unpleasant feeling, it can also lead to negative health consequences across the prisoner population. Boredom has long been associated with increased drug and alcohol abuse, over eating, depression and anxiety.

Prisoners can be encouraged to engage and be more occupied, with Unify's In-cell Media Centre providing controlled access to entertainment, educational programmes or audio books.

REHABILITATE

Maintaining connections with the outside world and keeping in touch with current world affairs can be beneficial for prisoners. Receiving regular news updates provides information that is key to personal learning and development, whilst improving resettlement and rehabilitation outcomes.

EDUCATE

Using the In-Cell Media terminal to continue with studies outside of the classroom provides prisoners with the opportunity to engage in learning and skills provision in their own time, whilst also building confidence and concentration in their chosen subjects.

INFORM

The information displayed on the Unify Digital Signage screens can be fed into the In-Cell Media centre and provide prisoners with essential prison information, news and weather updates in their cells.

REWARD

Prisoners can manage and spend their Unify Prisoner Incentive points from their In-Cell Media Centre, giving them the choice and responsibility to manage these independently.
